In recent years Ontario has seen the growth, both in number and in size, of Native organizations and associations responsive to Native needs. Promoting Native access to government resources and services has been, and still is, a major priority of the Native Community Branch. It was decided that a general directory of these Native communities and organizations would be useful to all agencies that work with Native people.

This directory will assist direct communication between government and Native groups. It offers to Native and non-Native agencies an opportunity for meaningful contact and a first step towards future co-operation.

Introduction

This directory consists of three major sections: A-Z, Thematic and Geographic. The latter two sections are subdivided respectively into subjects and areas. The directory can be used as a very basic and practical guide to many Native communities and organizations in Ontario as it provides the addresses and phone numbers of Native associations, Band offices, communities with Native corporations, and institutions offering Native Studies courses or relevant training programs.

Only communities with incorporated Native organizations are listed. Individuals are not cited in the directory. Headings in the Geographic Section of the directory reflect the field areas of Native Community Branch offices. In listing individual Indian Bands, however, the federal format has been used, and the federal district office through which each is administered has been noted.

This directory is the second such resource publication produced by the Native Community Branch, but errors and omissions undoubtedly exist. Agencies should feel free to bring any errors to the attention of the branch.

Special thanks are due to the many co-operative groups and individuals who offered their assistance in researching and preparing this second edition.

Advisory Services on programs and policies affecting Native People are provided to provincial ministries and agencies to facilitate direct communication between Native People and government. The Native Community Branch bases its advice on its unique field presence among, and familiarity with, Native communities and organizations.

Grants are utilized as a developmental tool in assisting Native-initiated socio-economic cultural, or leadership projects.

A research and information bank, and publications, are intended to facilitate the availability of basic information on Native communities in Ontario.

Staff are located in nine field offices across Ontario and in Toronto. The local Native Development Consultants work directly with local Native organizations. Staff in Toronto provide support to the field, work directly with provincial organizations and liaise with provincial ministries and agencies. Toronto staff consists of the Director of the Native Community Branch, a Native Development Consultant and specialized consultants - a Senior Consultant, a Culture Consultant, a Provincial Organizational Consultant, and a Social Development Consultant.
